The information you have provided, in connection with taking the BLOOMBERG ASSESSMENT TEST (BAT), and your test scores will be available to BAT Users. BAT Users are: (i) users who access candidate profiles on this Site; (ii) users of other services and products offered by the Bloomberg Group, including the BLOOMBERG PROFESSIONAL(R) service; and (iii) other candidates. In some cases (e.g., if only a small number of individuals from your country, university, year of graduation, and/or area of study have registered for the BLOOMBERG ASSESSMENT TEST (BAT)), it may be possible for you to be identified from your masked profile. The Bloomberg Group will share your name and contact information only after contacting you and obtaining your consent, with (i) users who access the candidate profiles on this Site; (ii) users of other services and products offered by the Bloomberg Group, including the BLOOMBERG PROFESSIONAL(R) service, and (iii) the individual at your current employer designated by you, provided that individual is a BAT User who has agreed to the Terms for the BAT (Recruiting). You may direct the Bloomberg Group not to share your masked profile and your name and contact information with any BAT Users. You may also direct the Bloomberg Group to share your masked profile and your name and contact information only with an individual at your current employer, provided that individual is a BAT User who has agreed to the Terms for the BAT (Recruiting). The Bloomberg Group does not limit the identity of BAT Users to those who may access this Site or other Bloomberg Group services and products for any particular purpose. Bloomberg does not control the BAT Users and cannot guarantee that their use of the profiles will comply with restrictions, if any, imposed on their use of the profiles by the Bloomberg Group.
